

LOCAL AUTHOR PANEL

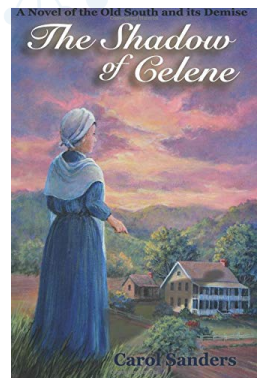

Thomas Mitchell's poems and essays have appeared in numerous journals and anthologies, including The New England Review, New Letters, The New Orleans Review, and Where We Are: The Montana Poet's Anthology. His second collection of poems, Caribou, was published by Lost Horse Press earlier this year.

North Bend author, Faye Westlake Newman, has contributed stories to local anthologies in addition to writing her own published works of nonfiction and novels including The Shaman series and her latest, The Summer Place, introducing Summer Quinn, a runaway wife who returns to Oregon to hide from her homicidal spouse.

Florence author of Family Disaster Dogs, Amber Higgins, worked professionally with dogs for four decades, and raised AKC Bloodhounds with German Shepherds for nationwide search dog work under the office of emergency management. Today, she teaches pet owners how-to evacuate with pets and how dogs can rescue us in disasters.

Carol Sanders of Coos Bay has authored three books, several questionable poems, and numerous short stories. When she isn't attending to the needs of her hairless cat or being a frustrated Luddite, she enjoys reading, exercising, volunteering, and traveling with her cantankerous husband. Carol will read from her newly published, The Shadow of Celine.
